Alexandria, 20th March, 1797.

THE Commissioners of the Street, propose to enter into a contract for keeping clean the carriage way of all the paved streets in the town, which will be divided into two districts—the upper district to include King-street, and all the paved streets, north of it—and the lower all the paved streets south of King street. It will be required that they shall be cleaned, and the dirt removed on Friday and Saturday in every week that hard frost or extreme bad weather do not render it impracticable, and that the person or persons with whom the contract is made, give good security for performing it, and who may have the right of disposing of the dirt or manure for his or their own benefit. Written proposals under seal may be delivered in for this purpose to Col. Gilpin, until the first day of next month, specifying the lowest price for each square it will be undertaken for, and on that day the Commissioners will meet, and determine, respecting the applications which may be made.

THE COMMISSIONERS.

One Hundred Dollars REWARD.

ON the night of the 7th of February last, was stolen in Dumfries, at the house where the stage stops, a POCKET BOOK, containing Three Thousand Two Hundred Dollars, in Bank Notes of the United States, New York, and Alexandria, by a man who call himself ROGERS, pretended to be a Frenchman, and Residing in Fredericksburg. He speaks the English as well as the French, very fluently. He is about 5 feet 5 inches high, from 30 to 40 years of age, long visage, Roman nose, light blue eyes, and hair of a chesnut colour,—had on a blue coat and brown camblet cloak:—He left Alexandria upon an iron grey horse, keeping close with the stage along the road, slept in the same room with me at the tavern in Dumfries, and left off very early in the morning of the 8th of February after having robbed me in the manner above described.

For the recovery of the Pocket Book, and the arresting the thief, so that he may be brought to condign punishment, the above reward will be given by

CHARLES VERGUIN.

FROM EUROPE.

FROM LONDON PAPERS.

WHITEHALL, JAN. 17.

Extract of a letter, from his excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to his Grace the Duke of Portland, dated Dublin Caſtle, Jan. 10.

I have the ſatisfaction to acquaint your Grace, that ſince the information tranſmitted to Mr. Grenville, that the French had entirely left Bantry Bay, there had been no re-appearance of them upon the coaſts; ſo that I truſt, from the violence of the tempeſt, and from their ſhips being ill found and ill victualled, their expedition is for the preſent fruſtrated.

Upon reviewing what has paſſed during this expedition of the enemy, I have the ſatisfaction to reflect, that the beſt ſpirit was manifeſted by his Majeſty's regular and militia forces; and I have every reaſon to believe, that, if a landing had taken place, they would have diſplayed the utmoſt fidelity. When the flank companies of the Antrim regiment were formed, the whole regiment turned out to a man, with expreſſions of the greateſt eagerneſs to march; and the Downſhire regiment to a man, declared they would ſtand and fall by their officers.

At the time the army was ordered to march the weather was extremely ſevere: I therefore ordered them a proportion of ſpirits upon their route, and directed an allowance of 4d. a day to their wives till their return. On march, the utmoſt attention was paid them by the inhabitants of the towns and villages through which they paſſed; ſo that in many places the meat provided by the commiſſary was not conſumed. The roads, which in parts had been rendered impaſſable by the ſnow, were cleared by the peaſantry, the poor people often ſhared their potatoes with them, and dreſſed their meat without demanding payment; of which there was a very particular inſtance in the town of Banager, where no Gentleman or Principal Farmer reſides to ſet them an example. At Carlow a conſiderable ſubſcription was made for the troops as they paſſed; and at Limerick and Cork, every exertion was uſed to facilitate the carriage of artillery and baggage, by premiums to the carmen; and in the town of Galway, which for a ſhort time was left with a very inadequate garriſon, the zeal and ardour of the inhabitants and yeomanry was particularly manifeſted, and in a manner to give me the utmoſt ſatisfaction. In ſhort the general good diſpoſition of the people through the ſouth and weſt was ſo prevalent, that, had the enemy landed, their hope of aſſiſtance from the inhabitants would have been totally diſappointed.

From the armed Yeomanry, Government derived the moſt honourable aſſiſtance. Noblemen and Gentlemen of the firſt property vied in exerting themſelves at the head of their corps. Much of the expreſs and eſcort duty was performed by them. In Cork, Limerick and Galway, they took the duty of the garriſon. Lord Shannon informs me, that men of 3 and 4000l. a year were employed in eſcorting baggage and carrying expreſſes. Mr John Latouche, who was a private in his ſon's corps, rode 25 miles in one of the ſevereſt nights, with an expreſs, it being his turn for duty. The Merchants of Dublin, many of them of the firſt eminence, marched 16 Iriſh miles with a convoy of arms to the North, whither it was conducted by reliefs of Yeomanry. The corps have been formed of the moſt reſpectable Barriſters, Attornies, Merchants, Gentlemen, and Citizens, and their number is ſo conſiderable, and their zeal in mounting guard ſo uſeful, that I was enabled greatly to reduce the garriſon with perfect ſafety to the town. The numbers of Yeomanry fully appointed and diſciplined in Dublin, exceed two thouſand, above 400 of whom are horſe. The whole numbers of corps approved by Government, amount to 440, excluſive of the Dublin corps. The groſs number is nearly 25000. There are alſo ninety-one offers of ſervice under conſideration, and one hundred and twenty-five propoſals have been declined; and, in reply to a circular letter written to the Commandants of the reſpective corps, their anſwers almoſt univerſally contained a general offer of ſervice in any part of the kingdom.

Many prominent examples of individual loyalty and ſpirit have appeared. An uſeful impreſſion was made upon the minds of the lower, Catholics by a judicious addreſs of Dr. Moylan, the titular biſhop of Cork. I cannot but take notice of the exertions of Lord Kenmare, who ſpared no expence in giving aſſiſtance to the commanding officer in his neighbourhood, and who took into his own demeſne a great quantity of cattle which had been driven from the coaſt. Nor could any thing exceed the ardour of the Earl of Ormonde, who, when his regiment of militia was retained as part of the garriſon of Dublin, ſolicited with ſo much zeal a command in the flank companies, that I thought it a meaſure due to his Majeſty's ſervice to encourage his Lordſhip's requeſt.

LONDON, JANUARY 17.

IRISH ACCOUNTS.

The following particulars of the expedition collected from the officers of the Ville de l'Orient have been publiſhed in a Cork paper.

"On the 14th December the fleet ſailed, conſiſting of 18 ſail of the line, 14 frigates, 6 large tranſports, and ſome ſmall veſſels, had 25,000 troops on board with 6 weeks proviſions. The ſignal having been made for ſailing, ſome went through the paſſage de Raz; la Fraternite frigate with admiral de Galles and general Hoche on board, and a few other ſhips got out, but the greater part of the fleet went through Des Feottes.

"A gale of wind coming on, the diviſions could not join, and the admiral had only the Neſtor of 74 guns with him; which having loſt her mainmaſt alſo parted with the admiral. The captain of la Ville de L'Orient, believed ſhe was at the rendezvous, but as none of the other ſhips had joined her ſince, he thinks ſhe muſt be loſt or taken. She had on board, 15,000,000 of livres in gold, to pay the troops.

"The fleet made Ireland in three days, but having miſtaken the Durfeys for Mizen head, could not make Bantry Bay until the 24th, and then only part had anchored, when the gale came on and forced them to cut cables in confuſion.

L'Indomptable of 80 guns, ran foul of La Reſolue and diſmaſted her, ſo that ſhe muſt be loſt with Admiral Neilly on board. L'Indomptable ſprung her bowſprit. The diviſion with which was La Ville de L'Orient, on entering the bay had not gained an anchorage with the firſt diviſion—it conſiſted of four 74 ſhips, three frigates, two corvettes, and two powder veſſels with 5000 troops.

A council of war was held; the troops were decidedly for landing, by the advice of ſome Iriſhmen with them, but none of them having ſeen La Fraternite, they reſolved to return—and ſailed on the 4th January from Bantry, and were in ſearch of the ſquadron when captured.

The fleet was ſupplied in every particular, and the tranſports choſen as faſt ſailers; 60 more tranſports were ready to follow with troops when a landing ſhould be made good.

PROCLAMATION,

Of General Hoche to the French army deſtined to produce a revolution in Ireland.

REPUBLICANS,

Proud of having led you to conqueſt on various occaſions, I have obtained from the government the permiſſion to conduct you to new ſucceſſes. To command you is to be ſure of victory.

Jealous of giving liberty to a people worthy of it, and ripe for a revolution, the Directory ſend us to Ireland in order to facilitate the revolution, which excellent republicans have juſt undertaken there It will be a proud thing for us, who have conquered the ſatellites of Kings armed againſt the republic, to break the fetters of a friendly nation, and to aſſiſt them in recovering their rights uſurped by the odious Engliſh government.

You will never forget, brave and faithful companions, that the people to whom we are going are the friends of our country, and that we ought to treat them as ſuch, and not as a conquered country.

On arriving in Ireland, you will find hoſpitality and fraternity; ſoon will thouſands of her inhabitants ſwell our phalanxes. Let us take care never to treat any of them as enemies. They, as well as ourſelves, have to revenge themſelves upon the perfidious Engliſh; the latter are the only perſons upon whom we have to inflict a ſignal vengeance. Believe that the Iriſhmen do not ſigh leſs than you after the moment in which we ſhall go in concert to London, to recall to the recollection of Pitt and his minions, what they have done againſt our liberty.

From friendſhip, from duty, and from honor for the French name, you will reſpect the perſons and property of the country where we are going.

If, by conſtant efforts, I provide for your wants, believe that, jealous of preſerving the reputation of the army which I have the honor to command, I ſhall puniſh ſeverely whoever ſhall depart from what he owes to his country. Laurels and glory ſhall be the lot of the republican ſoldier; death the price of deſolation and pillage. You know me enough to believe, that for the firſt time I will not forfeit my word; I have given you warning, and recollect it.

(Signed) GEN. L. HOCHE.

The following is an account of the officers, men and cargo, on board the Ville de l'Orient (a 75 cut down and armed en flute), 1 captain, 1 lieutenant, 5 officers, 64 ſeamen, 1 lieutenant de vaiſſeau, 1 colonel, 4 captains, 15 officers, 580 huſſars, 2 ten inch mortars, 2 eight pound field-pieces, 19,000 ſhells, 1000 muſkets, 10,000 cartridge boxes filled with ball cartridge, 380 barrels of flour, 26 pipes brandy, 10 bales cloathing, 600 ſaddles, 5 boxes ſhoes, artillery carriages, &c.

When La Ville de l'Orient and the Druid made ſail for Kinſale, the Unicorn and another frigate were in chaſe of the remainder of the fleet, which moſt likely will be the means of detaining them by action or manœuvring until Lord Bridport, who was not far off, comes up with 21 ſail of the line.

A letter of the 14th inſt. from the lieut. Gov. of Charles Fort Kingſale, ſays, "the priſoners I have got on ſhore. They are a very fine ſet of men, and their huſſars appointments the beſt ever ſeen. Every man has a ſteel to keep the ſabre ſharp, which cuts like a razor."

A French officer endeavouring to paſs from one ſhip to another in Bantry Bay, was driven on ſhore; he was taken and ſent by government to London, where he underwent an examination before the Privy Council.

The Paris papers (L'Eclair) of 11th Nivoiſe, ſays, on the 30th Frimaire, 36 ſhips anchored in Bantry Bay in the South of Ireland. The fleet originally conſiſted of 42 ſail 17 of which were of the line 13 frigates, and the reſt corvettes and flutes. The 36 ſail remained in the Bay 6 days, the frigates on board of which the generals were which did not arrive; the wind ſhifted and blew a hurricane; on the laſt day a great number of veſſels were driven out of the road and as the principal commanders were wanting, it was impoſſible to attempt without general Hoche, who in all probability was alone provided with the ſecret orders of Government, and as they could not wait for him any longer there, ſcourged as they were by the tempeſt, ſhort of proviſions, and wanting ſeveral veſſels, they therefore returned; and on the 2d Jan. Admiral Bouvette anchored in Breſt roads; theſe are among the moſt intelligible of the facts in the Paris Papers—the Redacteur ſtates, that 18,000 men had been landed and received as brothers; but other papers contradict this; the particulars of the expedition, however, appear to be, that the fleet was ſcattered the 2d day after it had left port, and two diviſions were ſeperated from the third; the veſſel in which the commanders were, had not been heard of; the other diviſions returned to Breſt; Admiral Bouvette immediately on his arrival, was ſuperſeded and impriſoned, and is to be tried for not having landed 6000 men in his diviſion, whoſe officers requeſted to be put on ſhore, though he had no boats for the purpoſe.

JANUARY 18.

The following notice was yeſterday ſtuck up at Loyd's;—"Capt. Aigrey left Calais on Sunday laſt, at which time orders had been iſſued to take all American ſhips bound to or from England. He had been at Dunkirk to claim the American ſhip Suſannah, from Liverpool bound to America, which had been captured laſt fall, but both ſhip and cargo were condemned. It was reported that an embargo had been laid on all American ſhips in French ports,"

Another account ſays Capt Aigrey has publicly contradicted the report.

EMPEROR OF RUSSIA.

The emperor Paul I. by the conduct he is now purſuing, ſeems to emulate the character of his predeceſſor Peter, and like him to perform actions which will juſtly denominate him "The Great."—While he views with a philoſophic eye other nations convulſed with internal commotion, or contending with external enemies, he directs his attention to the neceſſity of a reform in his own empire, to prevent the one; and by refuſing to ſign a treaty, which would have neceſſarily plunged him into the very heat of the war, ſhields his ſubjects from the horrors attendant upon the other. He has been trained up in the ſchool of adverſity and is thereby enabled to commiſerate the unfortunate and relieve the oppreſſed. His pomp ſeems to conſiſt in the number of the objects of his compaſſion, and his ambition is to do good. As in the inſtance of the releaſe of Koſciuſko, his mode of conquering the perſon is by ſubduing the heart with an act of generoſity, and binding the ſervices of thoſe whom other monarchs would deem enemies, by impoſing the ſentiment o gratitudef on their minds. The welfare of the Ruſſian empire appears to be his ſtudy, and the proſperity of his people to form the baſis on which he builds the edifice of his own glory.

INSPRUCK (TYROL,) JANUARY 4

OFFICIAL,

His excellency de Lehrbach arrived here yeſterday on his return from the frontiers of Italy. At the ſame time we have received the following news:

General Wurmſer has lately proved, in the moſt glorious manner, that he may be ranked in the number of the worthy warriors of the Auſtrian monarchy. Towards the end of laſt month the greateſt part of the French army, having received numerous reinforcements, advanced behind the Lake de Gardo towards Salo; with a view to penetrate by that rout into the country of Judicary.

This corps was eſtimated thirty-ſeven thouſand ſtrong. General Wurmſer had ſcarcely obſerved this movement of the French, but he reſolved upon a ſortie; and ſo completely effected it on the 29th of December, that the enemy loſt four thouſand men in killed, wounded, and taken priſoners. This glorious enterprize ſo alarmed the French corps on their way to Salo, that they precipitately retreated as far as Peſchiera; after which our army made a motion and advanced a little.

JANUARY 6.

The Imperial troops in Italy now occupy the ſame poſition they did at the brilliant epoch of laſt November. They then were obliged to force their way, and their march was marked with the bloody battles of Cagliano, Rivoli, Baſſano, and Montebelle, all of which were as many victories gloriouſly acquired. They have now nearly got to the ſame point they had formerly arrived at with great ſlaughter, without ſtriking a blow.

The important poſt of Rivoli is actually in our power. General Quoſdonovich has his head quarters at Caldiero, a place diſtant but one poſt ſituation from Verona. A corps of Auſtrians have paſſed the Adige lower down, with a view of diſturbing the flank of the French army, and to attempt an immediate communication with general Wurmſer.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS the Conſtitution of the United States of America provides that the Preſident may on extraordinary occaſions convene both Houſes of Congreſs; And whereas an extraordinary occaſion exiſts for convening Congreſs, and divers great and weighty matters claim their conſideration; I have therefore thought it neceſſary to convene, and I do by theſe preſents convene the Congreſs of the United States of America, at the City of Philadelphia, in the Commonwealth of Pennſylvania, on Monday the fifteenth day of May next, hereby requiring the Senators and Repreſentatives in the Congreſs of the United States of America, and every one of them, that laying aſide all other matters and cares, they then and there meet and aſſemble in Congreſs, in order to conſult and determine on ſuch meaſures as in their wiſdom ſhall be deemed meet for the ſafety and welfare of the ſaid United States.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF I have cauſed the ſeal of the United States of America to be affixed to theſe preſents, and ſigned the ſame with my hand.

(L. S.)

Done at the city of Philadelphia, the twenty-fifth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thouſand ſeven hundred and ninety ſeven, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the twenty-firſt.

JOHN ADAMS.

By the Preſident,
TIMOTHY PICKERING,
Secretary of State.

The following is a correct tranſcript of the Letter delivered to the French Directory, by Mr. Monroe previous to his departure.

CITIZEN DIRECTORS,

I HAVE the honor to preſent you with a letter of recal from the Preſident of the United States of America, and which cloſes my political functions with the French Republic; and I have likewiſe the honor to add, that I am inſtructed by the Preſident to avail myſelf on this occaſion, to renew to you on his part, an aſſurance of the ſolicitude with which the United States feel for the happineſs of the French republic.

In performing this act, many other conſiderations croud themſelves upon my mind. I was witneſs to a revolution in my own country. I was deeply penetrated with its principles, which are the ſame with thoſe of your revolution. I ſaw too its difficulties, and remembering theſe, and the important ſervices rendered us by France upon that occaſion, I have partaken with you in all the perilous and trying ſituations, in which you have been placed.

It was my fortune to arrive among you in a moment of comp licated danger, from within and from without; and it is with the moſt heart-felt ſatisfaction, that in taking my leave, I behold victory and the dawn of proſperity, upon the point of realizing, under the auſpices of a wiſe and excellent conſtitution, all the great objects for which, in council and in the field, you have ſo long and ſo nobly contended.—The intelligence I ſhall carry with me to America, of this ſtate of your affairs will be received by my countrymen, with the ſame joy and ſolicitude for its continuance, that I now feel and declare for myſelf.

There is no object which I have always had more uniformly and ſincerely at heart, than the continuance of a cloſe union, and perfect harmony between our two nations, I accepted my miſſion with a view to uſe my utmoſt efforts to increaſe and promote this object; and I now derive conſolation in a review of my conduct, from the knowledge that I have never deviated from it. Permit me, therefore, in withdrawing, to expreſs an earneſt wiſh, that this harmony may be perpetual.

I beg leave, to make to you C tizen Directors, my particular acknowledgments for the confidence and attention, with which you have honored my miſſion during its continuance; and, at the ſame time, to aſſure you, that as I ſhall always take a deep and ſincere intereſt in whatever concerns the proſperity and welfare of the French Republic, ſo I ſhall never ceale in my retirement, to pay you in return for the friendſhip you have ſhewn me, the only acceptable recompence to generous minds, the tribute of a grateful remembrance.

Details relative to the unſucceſsful attempt upon Ireland by the French, make up the major portion of our laſt European accounts. We have not entered into the minutiæ of this affair, but our readers will find in the preceding columns a ſelection of the moſt important particulars connected with this ſubject. The fate of the French fleet employed on the occaſion, according to the Engliſh account, is briefly this—3 ſhips of the line and 1 frigate were driven on ſhore, wrecked, and foundered—1 ſhips of the line cut down and armed en flute; 2 frigates, and 1 corvette, were taken by the Engliſh. 7 ſhips of the line and 5 frigates, got back to Breſt—and 8 ſhips of the line, 6 frigates, and 5 corvettes are ſtill miſſing.

On Sunday the 19th inſtant departed this life, DANIEL DULANY, Eſq. Barriſter at Law, in the 76th year of his age.

No man in America, was more eminently diſtinguiſhed for legal knowledge than this gentleman:—After practiſing the law with the higheſt reputation, for many years, he filled the office of Secretary of Maryland, with the moſt unblemiſhed character. As a good and honorable man, the poor have loſt a humane friend—as a huſband, father, and maſter, he was tender, affectionate, and indulgent—and in every act of his life, ſhewed the true Chriſtian, and the man of philanthropy. His remains were this day interred in the epiſcopal burying ground, attended by a very reſpectable ſet of gentlemen of the city of Baltimore. The Rev. Mr. Bend delivered an able and well adapted ſermon on the occaſion, which does him the higheſt credit—The compoſition was good and well delivered. Baltimore, March 20.

MARINE INTELLIGENCE.

WHITEHAVEN, JAN. 31.

The Sally, Crowdhill, arrived here yeſterday from Alexandria, in Virginia.

LIVERPOOL, JAN. 12.

The Charleſton, Clark, from Baltimore, bound to Rotterdam, was loſt in a hard gale of wind on the 29th ult. 45 leagues W. S. W. of Cape Clear, all hands ſaved, the cargo loſt. She ſprung a leak about twenty days before, which kept increaſing; notwithſtanding every exertion was made, and loſt her rudder the 25th ult.—Before the veſſel ſunk, they were taken up by his Majeſty's Revenue brig Beresford, Captain John Wheelan, and landed at Galway, in Ireland, who treated them with great humanity.

BALTIMORE, MARCH 24.

Captain Bright, paſſenger in the Fanny and Jane, from Cape Francois, informs, that on his paſſage from Alexandria, to Miraguan, (a French port,) with a cargo of flour, he was captured by a French privateer, off Port-de-Paix, carried in there and condemned without a hearing. The veſſel belonged to Meſſrs. Hartſhorne and Co. of Alexandria. There were about 15 ſail more of American veſſels in that port; the whole of them condemned, though ſeveral were bound to French ports. The adminiſtration at the Cape had iſſued orders to capture all Americans bound to leeward of Cape Francois.

The ſhips Freemaſon, Randall, for Baltimore, Carliſle, Porter, for do: John, Tyſon, for do. Commerce, Cleveland, for Alexandria, were advertiſed in a Liverpool paper of June 26.

Alexandria Library Company.

THE Preſident and Directors of the Alexandria Library Company, deſirous of promoting an inſtitution which they conceive eminently calculated to diffuſe uſeful knowledge, eſtabliſh the morals of the riſing generation, and afford rational entertainment for a vacant hour, earneſtly recommend it to the attention and ſupport of their fellow citizens. The utility of a public Circulating Library is too obvious to need arguments to demonſtrate it. The friends of Literature, of virtue, and reformed of manners, will, no doubt duly appreciate its value, and intereſt themſelves in its advancement.

An addition of a number of valuable books has lately been made to the former ſelections; to which the American edition of the Encyclopædia is directed to be ſuperadded as ſoon as it can be procured.

The Preſident and Directors have ordered a catalogue of all the books in the Library forthwith to be printed, with their reſpective prices annexed; to which will be prefixed the exiſting Laws of the Company, together with the names of all the actual ſubſcribers to the inſtitution. As they can diſcriminate between real and nominal members, only by the fulfilment of their engagements, they ſolicit thoſe who are in arrears, to come forward and pay their reſpective balances to Samuel Craig, Treaſurer, before the 15th of next month, otherwiſe their names will be omitted in the liſt, and their ſhares, agreeably to the conſtitution, will be deemed forfeited to the Company without reſpect of perſons. Alſo all ſuch as incline to become ſubſcribers, are deſired to call on Mr. Craig on or before the above date, and pay their ſubſcriptions; that their names may be inſerted with the reſt.

Signed by order,
JAMES KENNEDY,
LIBRARIAN.

Ten Piſtoles Reward.

RAN AWAY July laſt a black fellow named HARRY, formerly the property of Nicholas Blacklock, about 22 years old, 5 feet 8 or 10 inches high, plays on the violin with his left hand. By deception he obtained in Charles county a petition by the name of Henry Overton, for his freedom. His lawyer had his name eraſed from ſaid petition, it being made to appear, that he deſcended from an African family. This fellow has with him the clerk's certificate, and a forged paſs with my name ſigned to it. By the aſſiſtance of theſe papers he has erroneouſly paſſed for a free man, and and remained at and about Mrs. Backlock's, near Grub-Town, below Marlborough, for ome time; thence he moved to Alexandria, and is ſuppoſed to be about that town, the Federal City, or Falls of Potomac. He frequently paſſes through Prince George county and viſit the neighbourhood of the woodſard and Piſcataway. Whoever will deliver aid ſlave to me ſhall receive the above reward.
